The Arrests of Wednesday Night Tally Higher Than

FEW LOCAL FOLK ARRESTED

Several Men Are Sentenced to Appear Before Squire and it is Thought a Workhouse Sentence Will be Imposed.

Previous police records in Charleroi were placed from prominence by the record-breaking number of arrests made here Wednesday evening. Drunks were the most common types placed under arrest. This morning the police authorities started early and it was nearly noonday when they had finally given all the arrested men their hearings. In all there were 25 arrested here Wednesday night, many of whom hailed from up river points.

Some paid their fines imposed by Burgess Woodward and were permitted to go; those unable to pay their fines were sentenced to work the amount out for the borough. In a few instances some were discharged while they left some of their personal effects to be confiscated to the borough until they should appear at the appointed time with their fine.

Dora Simmons, colored, of Monessen, was fined $3 and charged that she evacuate Charleroi and not return. Thomas Jackson and John Desing of this place, were placed in line for a hearing before the squire. It is predicted that the former will receive a commission for entrance to the workhouse.

Three were arrested as the result of a fight, they were Arthur Whitehouse, Samuel Russell and Earl Crow, all of Monessen. Some disagreement arose and a fight resulted that landed the trio in the hands of the police. They will appear before the burgess at 7 o'clock tonight.

Dave Fritz was arrested and brought before the authorities and on default of the required fine was charged to work it out for the borough. This did not strike Dave and he refused to work. He will be taken before the squire and it is likely that a workhouse sentence will be imposed.

William Smith, who gave his address as Beaver Falls and his occupation as that of a boatman, was arrested as a suspicious character. His fine and costs amounted to $3 which was paid by an unknown colored woman who was brought to town by a mysterious telegram.

COMMISSIONER CUNNINGHAM DISMISSES EIGHTY FOREMEN

Plans to Purchase Number of Small Automobiles and Maintain Them With Amount Paid to Foremen.

Highway Commissioner R. J. Cunningham has ordered dismissal of 80 general foremen and bought small automobiles for county roads superintendents, to reduce expenses. The foremen were paid $55 a month, and expenses accounts averaged $15 monthly. They were employed for eight months in a year and cost the state about $64,000.

The cars, which will have the name "State Highway Department" on them in big letters, will enable superintendents to cover large areas. Ten cars have been bought as a start and it is calculated that, including freight they cost the state about $465 each. If 50 are ultimately bought the total cost would be $23,250 and it is believed the state would be the gainer in the end to the extent of $40,000.

Chief Engineer Uhler believes that the saving in traveling expenses of the superintendents will more than pay for the maintenance of the cars as well as enabling them to cover larger territory and to keep in closer touch with repair work.

BELGIAN RELIEF CONCERT TUESDAY

Local Choral Society to Entertain for Relief in Belgium

COMPETENT MUSICIANS LISTED

Among those who will take part in the concert to be given next Tuesday evening by the Charleroi Choral society at the High School auditorium for the benefit of the Belgian Relief Fund, are two whose appearance will be awaited with much interest by local concert-goers. They are Miss Norma Bosson and Felicien Felot, both violinists of repute. The former is so well known that it is needless to speak of her ability as a violinist. She has been recently returned from Peabody Institute, Baltimore, a musical institution of high repute in the East, where she was successful last fall in winning a scholarship from a field of fourteen contestants. Those who have been privileged to hear Miss Bosson, since her return, speak in highest terms of the wonderful progress she has made. Felicien Felot is a nephew of the Rev. J. E. Charles, pastor of the local French Presbyterian church and has seen service in the present European war as a member of the Belgian army. He was twice wounded in action, being finally discharged on account of disability. He is heralded as a most competent performer on the violin and also as a

NEAT SUM IS REALIZED FOR FURTHERANCE OF RELIEF WORK

Tuesday through the crowds brought to town by the circus a number of young ladies wended their way selling tags for the relief of the suffering of Belgium. As a result of their untiring efforts the treasury of the local committee has been enriched to the extent of $52.75. This week a house to house canvass is being made in the furtherance of the work. E. J. Charles was in charge of the tag day sale.

MIXUP IN TYPE MATTER IN ARTICLE YESTERDAY

In an article in yesterday's Mail giving an account of the Crumrine divorce proceedings at Washington a slight mixup caused confusion. One paragraph of the article should have appeared as follows:

Named in the libel are Selina Hagerty of Charleroi and Clarissa Emereck of Millsboro. The name of Sadie Smith of Charleroi also named in the libel as one of the co-respondents, but evidence produced at the time of the trial clearly established the fact that she was in no wise connected with the case and her name should not have appeared.

HOME-SEEKERS HEADING FOR WILSON HEIGHTS

Three lots yesterday forenoon and two after supper, sold at private sale, in Wilson Heights, shows how that new home-settlement is growing in popular favor. There will be several more after-supper sales during the current week, made to men who work and are unable to visit Wilson Heights until evening. You are invited to come up to Wilson Heights during this week and get some of these bargains and money-makers while they last. Take trolley car to Bridge No. 2 stop, right at the Wilson Heights plan of lots. Do it now. Ladies are especially welcome and full information will be cheerfully given to all visitors. NOVEL SUGGESTION OFFERED BY PROF. I. T. DANIEL

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:—The fact is well known that Charleroi is fortunate in that it can number among its citizens many capable performers on both brass and wood instruments. Therefore it is not possible to perfect an organization for the purpose of giving open-air concerts during the coming summer? Such a movement would, undoubtedly, prove a source of much pleasure and enjoyment to the people of Charleroi in general and particularly to the lauding element of our town, thereby affording them an opportunity to hear good music capably interpreted as I am sure would be the case with our local instrumentalists.

Is it not possible to effect the organization of a band for the purpose I have suggested? I commend the project to the consideration of our local musicians. The venture would, of course, entail the expenditure of a sum of money, but could any form of amusement of equal cost, conduce more to the betterment of the community than the opportunity of listening to high-grade music, intelligently rendered. I sincerely trust that the suggestions herein contained may receive the heartiest consideration of our local performers, and that something tangible may result.

In view of the popularity of the bathing beach, might it not be possible as well as profitable to erect a band stand there and give a concert either once or twice a week. Such an arrangement, I feel confident, would meet with popular approval.

It would be glad to do all in my power to help the project along.

Yours very truly,

I. T. Daniel.

VAUDEVILLE EXTRAORDINARY AT THE PALACE TODAY

Millicent Dorris the greatest act in Vaudeville, the hit of the bill at the Harris Theatre last week, other splendid acts and special photodrama in three parts featuring Ethel Clayton.

Notice to the Public.
Since we have published our new price list some people are under the impression that it is our purpose to make our customers pay more than necessary.

This is not the case and to prove it we desire to place the following facts before the people:

For the past three or four years a general increase in wages has been granted to all trades, plumbers, carpenters, blacksmiths, street car men, miners, etc., to meet the increased cost of living.

The teamsters of this town have not received any advance in wages but have been compelled to meet a steady increase on expenses as for instance, shoeing horses three years ago cost $1.40 while we pay $2.00 now. Hay, oats, straw have taken a raise from 50 to 100 per cent in the same time. The price of harness, wagons, horses and repairs have all been advanced.

In all fairness are we not entitled to a raise in our prices to meet these new conditions? We ask your fair consideration of the above facts. Respectfully submitted for the Master Teamsters Association

Men who have been without work for some time will be given a chance to get positions Friday. BEALLSVILLE WOMAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS BY HUSBAND

Mrs. Joseph Hamilton of Beallsville was overcome by a fainting spell at her home Wednesday and fell to the ground where she lay for some time unconscious. She was in the garden gathering lettuce and in stooping over the flow of blood to the head caused her to faint. She was found unconscious about 20 minutes later by her husband. Mrs. Hamilton had just returned from a visit with friends at Monongahela, Elco, Charleroi, Bentleyville and other valley points.

Nervous Breakdown Assails
Mother of Mrs. Lucille
Chamberlain

NOT TOLD OF SERIOUS STATE

Mrs. Hattie Chew, the aged mother, of the unfortunate girl who was critically injured in the auto accident near this place is prostrated over the affair.

Mrs. Chew resides on Second street, South Brownsville, and when the news of the youngest daughter's accident was made known to her, she collapsed. The assistance of a physician was required to revive her. Now she is confined to her bed suffering from a nervous breakdown. She has not been told that her daughter has a very slight chance to recover.

Lucille Chew was the maiden name of the victim of the automobile accident. She is the youngest of a family of six children and was married August 15, 1909 to Paul Chamberlain, at Cumberland, Md. Chamberlain was a railroader and employed at the time of his marriage on the Pennsylvania line, working out of West Brownsville Junction.

The couple lived happily until 1912, when complications arose. They separated twice. The young woman went to the home of her parents and Chamberlain returned to his home. They have been living apart ever since.

Small Boys Make Gruesome
Find While Playing in Shore Water

POSSIBILITY OF FOUL DEED

Skull Appears to Have Been in Damp Sands for About a Year—Absence of Lower Jaw Indicative of Destructive Violence.

While playing in the river near the local ball park some small boys discovered the skull of a human skeleton. The skull is one of a full grown person, presumably about 50 years of age. Traces on the top of the skull point to a partial baldness and the teeth are those of second growth and appear as the teeth of a person well past middle age.

A sand dredge has been operating in the vicinity of the spot where the skull was located for some time and it is thought that the dredging disturbed the skull from the heavy shore sand. No other bones have yet been discovered. When the boys discovered the skull they immediately hastened with it to the undertaking apartments of Lawrence B. Frye on Fallowfield avenue.

It is supposed that the find has unearthed a foul murder wherein the victim was buried in the heavy shore sand or that it is the skull of a person drowned up the river and floated down to the place of discovery. The latter supposition is entirely plausible for a man was drowned at the Alice mine above Fayette City about a year ago and the body was never located. The skull found Wednesday evening presents the appearance of one being in the damp sands for a year or so.

A mysterious feature of the finding is the complete absence of the under jaw; this is indicative of violence in connection with death. There is also a large hole in the right side of the skull that bears the appearance of a bullet wound.

MAKING ONESELF OVER

One hears every now and then about the "self-made" man, but there is an important sense in which every human being is self-made. The man or woman is the final result of the daily thoughts, emotions and actions.

One does inherit certain tendencies, desires, purposes, inclinations and these are elements of strength or weakness, as the case may be. There is a great deal in being well-born. Blood will tell in divers ways.

The normal person may inherit tendencies; these will never grow into habits unless they are encouraged and cultivated. If one inherits a tendency toward a weakness of any sort one must carefully guard oneself at that point.

From whom one inherits these very human tendencies, however is sometimes a problem of considerable magnitude. Frequently a child manifests no single trait of character, no liking resembling those of either parent. He resembles some far off ancestor.

Humanity is a bundle of mingled strength and weakness. Character begins the formative process before birth. A child need not be very old to develop certain very marked characteristics. We have all seen a tall babe "hold its breath" or hammer the floor with its feet or head, the result of a fit of anger.

Under the care of wise teachers of parents the average child with a natural disposition to "go wrong" may be greatly helped and correctly guided in the acquisition of a strong and lovable character. It is a wonderful advantage to have fit control and intelligent guidance in the beginning.

Still every human being has a duty to himself and the development of his character and life which can be performed by no parent, no teacher no guardian. One must take up his own burden and begin the practice of self-restraint, if one really wishes to escape a life of misery and wretchedness.

In every warped and perverted life there comes a period when change is impossible, provided inclination is indulged until it becomes a thick coil habit. There was a time in the life of the most wretched drunkard when he could have saved himself; now it is too late; appetite is stronger than will.

Scientific investigators who have studied the human brain carefully, tell us that any person may change the convolutions of his brain by constant thought in a particular direction or by actions of a certain sort. If this process of acting or thinking be carried on the time comes when change is impossible. This is one of the fixed laws of life.

The impressive facts disclosed by unerring science should be presented in the most vivid form to the consciousness of the young. "Know thyself" is advice the practical usefulness of which will some day be generally acknowledged. When one really knows himself he may the more easily guard against the weaknesses and the frailties that might otherwise destroy the life.

Suppose one finds in one's heart a tendency to envy, to jealousy, to impatience with one's surroundings, to say harsh things to another, to indulge in arbitrary and insulting language, what should one do? Such feelings indulged, such inclinations fostered, often lead to the direct unhappiness, frequently bring on recklessness, insanity, early death. Against them and all similar feelings one should fight with the utmost resolution.

When one wakes up to the fact that malevolent passions, evil inclinations, ugly elements of character are struggling for ascendancy in one's life the time has come for the beginning of a battle. It is never too late to make a good resolution and one may be sure that "Providence helps those who help themselves." If one will resolutely foster sweetness and light, sympathy, tenderness, patience, gentleness and all the ennobling qualities one may be sure that the poison that threatened the life will disappear.

SPEED LAW VIOLATIONS.

Fine and costs for speeding form the penalty imposed on a Monessen man in a local justice's court, remarks the Washington Reporter in a recent issue. If he had not been so unfortunate as to meet up head on with another machine, nothing would have been heard of his speeding. He might have opened up at double the clip he was using and no one would have made a move to check him.

It is not any pleasure to play the kicker—when one is not naturally built that way—but it is common comment that there are few motor vehicles that traverse the streets of the town and the outlying roads which do not violate the speed limit set by law, often—every day—almost constantly. When some life is snuffed out or serious injury inflicted, then the speed mania may be controlled for a time. Owners of autos and cycles will have no ground for complaint if the law is invoked against them. They know, or should the provisions of the law, and they certainly know they pay little heed to those provisions.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

There was, once upon a time an old lady who rented a furnished villa for the summer and with the villa a large dog also went.

In the sitting room of the villa there was a comfortable armchair. The old lady liked this chair better than any other in the house. She always made for it the first thing. But alas, she nearly always found the chair occupied by the large dog. Being afraid of the dog she never dared bid it harshly to get out of the chair, as she feared that it might bite her, but instead she would go to the window and call "cats."

Then the dog would rush to the window and bark and the old lady would slip into the vacant chair quietly.

One day the dog entered the room and found the old lady in possession of the chair. He stroled over to the window and looking out, appeared much excited and set up a tremendous barking.

The old lady arose and hastened to the window to see what was the matter and the dog quietly climbed into the chair.

An Irish sergeant was instructing some recruits in the mysteries of marching movements, and found great difficulty in getting a countryman of his to halt when the command was given. After explaining and illustrating several times he approached the recruit, sized him up silently for a couple of minutes, then demanded his name.

"Fitzgerald, sir," was the reply. "Did you ever drive a donkey, Fitz?" "Yes, sir." "What did you say when you wished him to stop?" "Whoa!"

The sergeant turned away and immediately put his squad in motion. After they had advanced a dozen yards or so he bawled out at the top of his lungs: "Squad halt! Whoa, Fitzgerald!"

An ice cream, cake and strawberry social for benefit of company 5 of Christian church for the city organization of Lock 4 district will be held Thursday, June 17, in the basement of new school building at Lock Hill at 8 p. m. sharp. Tickets 15 cents. 2-42

"I'm putting on hands every day." "What business are you in?" asked the thin man. "I'm a watch-maker," replied the fat man.

Though soldiers are not prone to brawls, as everybody knows, when they respond to bugle calls, do they not come to blows?

A Testimonial.
Dear Luke McLuke, a letter to you, a message of gladness and thanksgiving too, I used to be grouchy, I used to be sad, but reading your Byplay has now made me glad. Most folks go to doctors whenever they're ill, use tonics and dopes and take many a pill. Their fever's enormous, their bills just as high, and it isn't so long till the most of them die. The world grows much sadder with each of these cases, a dismal old outlook that every one faces. But a cure has been found, and I'm writing this letter to show every sick one the way to get better, for I know you will read it and print it for me, and it will go broadside for people to see. To start this new cure buy a paper today and turn to the page where old Luke's holding sway. Read down through the Byplay and miss not a line, be filled with the joy and the truth that is fine. Take treatment like this for a day and a year and you will be healthy and full of good cheer. A tip to the weary, a tip to the wise, a tip to the man who is tired of life's ills. So greetings to you, Luke, for the health thus unfurled. Your cure is a boon to our sinful old world.—Yours in health, Richard M. Harris. Alpha Delta chapter, Phi Sigma Chi, Cambridge, O.

The weigh of the transgressor is short.

Luke McLuke Says:
The man who wants a divorce because he finds one of his wife's hairs in his comb when he is home is the same fellow who fixes up his mustache with the comb he finds chained to a washstand in a public place.

Daughter loves the Castle dip because it gives her some much needed exercise, but mother gets her exercise doing the bugle call scrub.

All the heroes are not wearing uniforms and posing on pedestals. Most of the heroes are ordinary looking dudes who wear pants that bag at the knees and shine in the rear. These heroes have been honest and industrious and have raised families and have gone without good clothes and pleasures in order that the kids might have new shoes and that the wife might have something decent to wear on Sunday.

Many a man who spends most of his time mixing drinks wouldn't take a job as bartender for any money.

The man who pays his grocery bills may not get to heaven, but he sure is on the right road.

About four times every day a man feels that he would give ten years of his life if he could read a strange woman's mind when she sizes him up with a peculiar expression in her eyes.

A man feels a touch when he rolls home at 3 a. m. and realizes that he must go in and face his wife. But how would he feel if he discovered that he had arrived home before she did and that she wasn't there to face him?

It is funny how a few months of marriage can change a sweet little violet into a big red onion.

There are some hands in which a girl never sees her husband until she marries him. Over here she seldom sees him after she marries him.

Once-upon-a-time an editor published the Ten Commandments, and every one of his subscribers took it as a personal matter and quit taking the paper.

MOTORCYCLISTS PLAN THE ESTABLISHMENT OF PERMANENT RACE

Lately many objections have arisen in connection with motorcycle hill climbs in the various boroughs and townships. The motorcyclists of Charleroi and California have placed a movement on foot to still maintain their motorcycle racing and at the same time do away with the objections.

A motorcycle association has been formed and will meet at the store of C. W. Albright of this place, Wednesday, June 22. The matter will be taken up fully and it is thought that an organization will be effected.

It is planned to use the Belle Vernon half-mile track if satisfactory arrangements can be made and race meets will be held periodically throughout the summer. The motorcyclists of the section are deeply interested and a large turnout at the meeting is predicted.

Fraternity Bulldog Becomes Police Canine After a Series of Odd Digestive Feats.

Psi is a brindle bull. He was bred in the country and is not well acquainted with city ways. Until recently he was the darling of the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity in Evanston, Ill.—but his lack of education overbalanced their love for him.

Psi, visiting at the Sigma Chi house some time ago, ate up a $300 davenport while in a state of embarrassment. A few days later he decorated the lining of his tummy with a $175 Oriental rug.

He made another faux pas when he chewed his way into the frat house through a beautiful oak panel, and recently he dined on three $50 overcoats—pockets and all.

So the fraternity presented Psi to Desk Sergeant Pestka of the Evanston police. The sergeant thinks Psi will have many good meals when the "Weary Willies" increase. He's making a "police dog" of Psi.

$200 for Partridge Dinner.
Partridge dinners came exceedingly high to three of the residents of Balmville, a suburb of Newburgh, N. Y. Penalties aggregating $1,150 have been imposed on them by the state game department for having violated the law in buying partridge, which is prohibited at all times.

The three offenders were Mrs. F. Delano Hitch, who is active in philanthropic work; Frank V. Burton and Dr. S. A. Waldron. Mrs. Hitch suffering the heaviest penalty, paying $800.

This is said to be the heaviest fine ever imposed for an offense of that kind in this state. The partridge were sold by Mrs. Chauncey Ferguson for her husband, who shot them. Mrs. Ferguson gave information which led to the imposing of the penalties.

Second Albino Snake Found.

What is reported to be the second albino snake ever found, and the first ever caught alive and watched carefully for purposes of scientific study as to characteristics and habits, was given to Professor Storer of the department of vertebrate zoology, by a farmer who found it in the country near Berkeley, Cal. The snake is about the size of the ordinary gopher snake, but is marked by the entire absence of color. This peculiar reptile, which has a sort of fleshy hue with a bit of a pinkish tinge, is being closely watched by the members of the class who frequent the museum of vertebrate zoology for any developments of unusual characteristics.

Fortified Tires
Are Always
Climbing Upward

104,000 Men

In the jungles and fields, in our factories, etc., 104,000 men are employed to meet the demand for Goodyear tires.

No other tire commands anywhere near such favor. And this spring has shown, in sales to dealers, an increase of 52 per cent.

Extra Values

The reason is, we fortify our tires. We give the best that others give, plus five exclusive features. In costly ways, employed by no one else, we combat:

Rim-Cuts
Blowouts
Loose Treads

Insecurity
Punctures
Skidding

And we never skimp. Despite all price reductions, Goodyears are better than ever. Lately we have added three conspicuous improvements.

Some Goodyear supremacies can be seen at a glance. Compare size and thickness with the average tire. Compare number of fabric plies.

Prices Down

Goodyear has made in about two years three great price reductions, totaling 45 per cent. The last was on February 1st. Our matchless output enables a value which no other maker can duplicate.

STORM SAVED BURNING SHIP

Waves, Breaking Over Abandoned Craft, Extinguished the Blazing Benzine

A strange shipwreck story, unreported by cable from the Azores, arrived at New York from Horta, Faial, by the Holland-America freighter Zaanijk, which was forced to put into this port by heavy weather that reduced her coal supply. Captain Barendsen says he learned from the skipper of the Norwegian tank steamship La Habra, which arrived at Horta on February 7, bound from Talara bay, Peru, by way of the Panama canal, for London, that her cargo of benzine caused an explosion aboard as she was nearing the Azores to replenish her bunkers.

La Habra was quickly ablaze from stem to stern. About half of the crew were on the forward part of the tank and the other half aft. Fearing that the falls and other boat gear would be burned, the tank's skipper ordered all hands to leave her in lifeboats and stand by. The engines had been stopped and La Habra drifted into the trough and, as she was deeply laden, the seas, which were very high, washed over her.

The chief officer and five men were in a boat towing astern when the hatches of the tank were blown off and cataraacts of blazing benzine shot over her sides and stern. The boat's painter was burned off and the chief officer and his men went drifting down the blast, being without oars or sail, and disappeared. The other boats were threatened with destruction by the burning benzine, which spread out all around La Habra, making her look like a fire ship in a lake of flame.

The skipper of the tank expected her to be destroyed utterly before his eyes. He was elated when a giant coner broke around her, dousing the fire almost completely. Other seas helped in the work, and all hands except the chief officer and those in the vanished boat went back on their ship. They found that all charts, books and instruments of navigation had been destroyed.

London's Treasures Guarded.

Extensive precautions have been taken in London to guard art treasures against the menace of air raids. The custodians of art galleries and museums long ago removed to vaults or similar places the most precious of their portable exhibits. At the British museum a number of priceless manuscripts, books and other objects have been stored away in safes. Some measure of risk must, however, be borne in a building which contains 40 miles of bookshelves and massive pieces of sculpture. Visitors to the National gallery find the major part of the building closed. At the Guildhall the most valuable pictures have been placed in the basement. The magnificent Gainsborough, "Fording the River," has been removed from the walls. In the corporation strong room in the basement is stored what is probably the finest collection of municipal records in the world. It includes the charter of William the Conqueror "to William, Bishop and Gosfegh Portreeve, and all the burgesses within London," securing to them their ancient liberties. Every reign since the Conqueror is represented in the charters.

The Latest War Story.

Soldier's Unmarried Wife (who has been living with her men for eleven years, to charming and aristocratic widow, the local representative of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Families' association)—Well, ma'am, I'm going to be married next week, and I want you to come to the wedding. You've been so kind it would not be right without you.

Fair Widow—I shall be delighted to come, Mrs. Brown. What day is it?
Mrs. Brown—On Thursday, ma'am.
Fair Widow—That is very unfortunate. I am afraid I cannot go, as I have another important engagement.
Mrs. Brown—is it very important, ma'am? Can't you put it off?
Fair Widow—Well, the truth is, I am going to be married myself.
Mrs. Brown—Ah, I quite understand. It doesn't do to miss the chance of getting married when you get the opportunity.—London Tit Bits

Real Sanitation in Air Towel.

An "air towel" used in the large public lavatory in the District building at Washington D. C. is the invention of I. M. Ward, superintendent of the District building. In appearance it resembles a rectangular box eleven inches by three, set in a sanitary base having twelve inch legs, with an opening in the top of the case in which the wet hands are held while being dried. The device consists of a blower that forces air through an electric heating element to ducts and deflectors, suitably placed for distributing the warm air to all parts of the hands at the same time and is operated by a foot lever or pedal, which in turn operates a quick-acting switch, thereby setting the blower in motion. It removes the foot the device is put out of operation. The hands come in contact with no part of the device thus assuring a perfectly sanitary operation.

Point of View.

The pretty plaintiff had testified for three solid hours. She had talked and talked and talked.
"That is all, madam," said the lawyer. "You may leave the witness box."
"Chatterbox," grunted the lawyer for the defense, for he was married and had suffered.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

COURTESY ON TELEPHONE

No Reason Why It Should Be Forgotten Because One May Be in a Hurry.

"I thought the telephone was a most informal instrument," objected one girl to another, who had spoken of telephone etiquette.

"Etiquette," said the other, "is simply courtesy, and naturally one can be as courteous over the telephone as anywhere else, but how many of us are?"

It certainly is exasperating to be given a wrong number; but to speak in a sharp, angry tone to the person who answers the phone under such circumstances is as unjust as it is impolite. Instead of rudely requesting him to "ring off," you should say, "I beg your pardon," as if you really meant it.

Many women have an exasperating way of asking, "Who is this?" when someone answers their call whose voice they do not recognize. Always ask for the person you want to speak to, and mention who wants her.

In talking to business people be brief as possible, for their time is valuable. Girls who have the telephone habit should be made to realize that it is most embarrassing for employees to be called to the phone during business hours unless the message is very important, and that an employer is not pleased, to say the least, when he sees his clerks wasting his time talking social matters over the telephone.

Don't impose upon your friends' good nature by telephoning from house or office without offering to pay for the call. Above all else, when you phone "cut it short." It is difficult to realize that pleasure can be had from gossiping into a hole in the wall, but it is a temptation to many. Say what you have to say and get through with it. Don't keep the wire occupied with aimless chatter when, perhaps, it is urgently needed for an important message.

AS TO DIRT AND DISEASE

Words Have Been Considered Synonymous, but Science Has Proved the Contrary.

"Fathers and mothers lucky enough to have both boys and girls know how clean the girls keep themselves and how the boys disregard dirt. From earliest childhood the little girl's hands and face are washed, and she evades dress status, combs her hair and tries to look nice. But every normal boy, up to the age of fourteen, revels in dirt and looks forward to the Saturday night bath with virtuous contempt or dread. But boys do not suffer infectious diseases as much as girls. This was brought out in an investigation made of 8,800 children of all ages and sexes. We requested the mothers themselves to report what diseases their children had had. Girls had had more infections than boys of the same age. This goes to support the modern view that dirt and disease have no necessary relation. It is not the dirt boys revel in that does harm. It is the germs in other people's bodies that should be dreaded. The girls encounter infection more than the boys because they are more sociable, meet other children more, and associate with them more intimately than boys do."—Doctor Hill.

Helpful Suggestion.

The costumer came forward to attend to the nervous old bean who was rumpousing his bald and shining poll with a big elk headkerchief.

"And what can I do for you?" he asked.

"I want a little help in the way of a suggestion," said the old fellow. "I intend going to the French students' masquerade ball tonight, and I want a distinctly original costume—something I may be sure no one else will wear. What would you suggest?"

The costumer looked him over attentively, bestowing special notice on the gleaming nob.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said then, thoughtfully, "why don't you sugar your head and go as a pill?"—Tid-Bits.

Vin Ordinaire.

Why, how do you do? Haven't seen you in a long time. How are you? That's good. Yes, I'm well. You're looking fine. No need to ask you how you are. Yes, I've been well all along. How you have. You certainly look it. No, I wouldn't say that unless I meant it. Yes, I feel first rate. I never felt better. I'm mighty glad to see you looking so well. You weren't feeling so good at one time, were you? No neither was I. But I feel fine now. I certainly never saw you looking better. I'm glad you think I look well. Of course, I never know. I really am feeling first rate. Anybody could see to be well—
Etc. etc. etc.—Life.

Have a Good Bed.

In Farm and Fireside a contributor, writing a practical article about mattresses and other provisions for beds, makes the following general comment: "In furnishing a home the housewife should give most careful thought to the beds and their equipment. We spend at least a third of our lives in bed, and it is worth while to make that third pleasant and refreshing. The best mattresses and springs are none too good—when one is storing up strength for some work. Besides, as is the case with most household purchases, the best are really the cheapest in the end."

EFFECTIVE WAY TO TEACH

Indirect Method and Concrete Example Alike Praised by Writer in Magazine.

The indirect method and the concrete example are the most effective ways to teach, according to a writer in Leslie's. The girls' canning clubs, organized throughout the South by the general education board co-operating with the federal department of agriculture, have not only taught thousands of girls how to can scientifically, but have indirectly opened the eyes of as many mothers to the possibilities of home system and home development, and have exerted strong and helpful social influences on hundreds of farming communities. The method has been to assign to each girl joining a canning club one-tenth of an acre, and to teach her how to select the seed, to plant, cultivate and perfect the growth of the tomato plant. When the tomatoes are ripe, the girls meet first at one home, then at another, to can the product. Everything is done in the most up-to-date style, and the girls are taught the necessity of scrupulous cleanliness and sterilization. Canning club day becomes an occasion of social importance in which all of the family are included so that indirectly the clubs have helped to awaken a community social spirit. There has been financial profit, as well as practical instruction and social pleasure. The average profit made by girls reporting in 12 states was $21.98. In the four years the canning clubs have been in operation the number of girls has increased from 325 to 30,000, and the appropriation of the general education board has advanced from $5,000 to $75,000. The board has spent no money anywhere that has secured better or more far-reaching results.

GENEROSITY IN WAR TIMES

Some Historical Instances Are on Record, Though They Are Not Numerous.

Instances of historical generosity are rare indeed. Of the few of record the following may be briefly mentioned: After the defeat of Pompey's army at Pharsalia Julius Caesar, instead of ordering a general massacre or enslaving of the conquered, issued an order according to every man of his own forces the privilege of ransoming one of the enemy. It was thus that Julius made himself Caesar. After the fall of La Rochelle the English knights taken prisoners and unable to ransom themselves, were sent under a flag of truce home to England and there set free. The English, not to be outdone, chivalrously restored to the French an equal number of captive knights. From this incident came the custom of exchange of prisoners so greatly ameliorating war's horrors.

The exchange of kindly courtesies between Grant and Lee after Appomattox furnishes an American instance of the practical value of generous actions.

And another deserves recording: When the great hearted, wise minded Lincoln, reproaching the vindictive of his cabinet who stigmatized playing the delightful air of "Dixie" as "unreasonable," said: "Not so, we captured that tune with the other effects of the 'Lost Cause.'"

Our Speech.

Our very vocabulary is degraded: the most far-reaching symbols of our language come seldom into use, or appear with diminished meaning. Follow, for instance, the course of the word "infinite" through the annals of contemporary literature. Our phraseology has become carnal: our vital terms are terms of physical life. Nowhere is the limitation of contemporary thought more apparent than in these instruments of speech. One must read again Wordsworth, Shelley, Carlyle, Ruskin, Arnold, Meredith, to meet great words now little employed, words that make you realize the utmost reach of life: in so doing, one pauses in dismay, realizing how full contemporary speech is of lesser terms, how few employ the greater words that tell the inner life of the soul.—From the Atlantic

One Way to Put It.

A certain prominent railway director was asked by an employee whose parents lived in the country for a pass to visit his family.
"You are in the employ of the company," inquired the director.
"Yes."
"Well, now, supposing you were working for a farmer instead of the company, would you expect your employer to take out his horses every Saturday night and carry you home?"
"No," said the employee, politely.
"I should not expect that," said the farmer, who had his horses out and was going to bed. "I should call him a very mean fellow if he would not let me ride."

As to Sleep.

We read of the creation that the world was made in six days and that the Creator "rested" on the seventh. Edison said that sleep, otherwise rest, is a loss of useful hours. Hibernating animals in our latitude curl up for the entire winter and neither eat nor walk nor crawl. The earth doesn't stop in its revolution, either on its axis at the rate of more than 1,000 miles an hour, or in its orbital revolution of about 18 miles a second. Possibly it is this which suggested to Mr. Edison that the time will come when we shall have no need of sleep.

Ever Hit Thumb With a Hammer?

Here is a little device which you can make at home by which the universal tack can be held without possibility of injury to the fingers. Take a strip of the about three-quarters of an inch wide and about six or seven inches long. Snipe it with a small slot in one end. Then double it, bending at the middle. When ready to insert the nail, put it into the slot, which will hold it by its head. This gives a kind of handle by means of which you can hold the nail perfectly upright while you hit it with the hammer. Of course the holder must be pulled away before the nail or tack has gone all the way into the wood. If you have not the tin at hand strong cardboard will serve the purpose. Try this little device just once and I am sure you will feel amply repaid for your trouble in making it, as it will prevent many a bruised finger.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Short Memory.

Uncle Jed was a trifle slack about quitting the bottom when the levee broke, and had to take to a tree. Morning came, and there was sixty feet of Mississippi flood water between him and shore. The preacher happened along on the high ground and saw Jed, but there wasn't any boat. Moreover, Jed's suspicion that there were alligators about was well founded.

The preacher besought Jed to swim, but in vain. Finally he called out: "Jed, have faith. Remember how Jonah was cared for in the whale and saved after three days."

Jed spoke earnestly: "Yas, suh, I remember. I ain' denyin' nuthin' 'bout Jonah, 'cause I wa'n't nigh um. 'But dis year alligator, he ain' no whale, suh. Alligator, he eat a nigger an' go off an' sleep a week, suh, an' disremember all 'bout dat nigger inside um!"

His Idea.

Those angelic-looking little boys, with golden curls, are usually just like other boys, a fact often overlooked by female relatives and other adoring ladies. One of this cherubic brand of small boys came back from school the other day rather depressed because he had no nickname.

"I spoke to the teacher about it," he roushaded, his big eyes opened wide, a mournful look about his angelic mouth. "I told her some nicknames that I'd like."

"And what were the names?" inquired a rapturous maiden aunt.

"Bunco Bill or Iae Slagger," replied the angelic one.
